Shaping the People Agenda

As a people leader, how do you get your voice heard at a strategic level? How do you influence others in order to promote the value that you and the People leadership HR function bring to the organisation?

Today's business landscape is rapidly evolving and the People leaders that we meet share the challenges they face managing diverse workforces, navigating regulatory changes, and driving organisational growth.

If you are a People professional or HR Leader join us over a course of 3 months where you will:

1. Shift from feeling overwhelmed and often overlooked at a strategic level, to being proactive, setting boundaries, being in the driving seat - looking up and out to influence strategically and gain recognition.
2. Overcome your inner glass ceiling, break through limiting beliefs to increase your confidence and credibility as a people leader.
3. Learn how to successfully lead strategic change initiatives and enhance decision making skills.
4. Network with like minded women and learn through shared experiences.

The programme consists of four comprehensive modules, delivered by 2 industry leading experts plus a specific thought leadership module from the University of Ulster.

Additionally, three personalised coaching sessions will provide you with tailored guidance, feedback and support to apply learned concepts directly to your organisation's context.

What others have to say

Elizabeth O'Connor MJM Marine

With busy work schedules and time constraints it is always difficult to find time for personal development. However I was delighted that I took the time to attend this course. I found myself looking forward to the sessions and felt it was extremely beneficial for my personal leadership journey.

Ailsa McNeill The Progressive

Michele and Joanne were exceptional and opened my mind up to so many new ways of thinking. It has been truly transformative for me.

Julie Henderson NIE Networks

Michele and Joanne were fantastic facilitators who created an environment for learning and growth and helped us all challenge ourselves. Their in-depth knowledge and experience in all topics made each module interesting and created so many learning outcomes and actions I will takeaway. I enjoyed being part of a small group of female leaders.
